Orders are solicited as to whether there should be any spe-cial pujas or prayers in temples, mosques, churches &c in connection with the Coronation of H.M. the King-Emperor on the 26th instant. On the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee in 1897 a sum of Rs. 1000 was sanctioned from Provincial Funds for the above purpose. The accompanying newspaper cutting shows that the official ceremonies in this country in connection with the Coronation will take place on 1st January 1903, and not on the 26th instant.

CORONATION CELEBRATIONS IN INDIA.

SIMLA, 21ST MAY.

It is officially announced that "It has been decided that for the purposes of India, Coronation day will be celebrated, not on June 26th, 1902, but on January 1st, 1903 The Honours List to be published on June 26th will be the ordinary half-yearly list, which will appear during the present year on that day, but in future years on May 30th There will be no further distribution of Honours until January 1st, 1903, when the list will contain all the exceptional favours to be awarded in connection with the Coronation Similarly, with the exception of the State Church services that will be held in India on the morning of June 26th, the official ceremonies in this country will take place, not on that day, but on January 1st, 1903, when there will be public rejoicings, not only at Delhi but through out India. It is not proposed to interfere with the liberty of such places or communities as have resolved or may resolve to celebrate the occasion on June 26th, but from every point of view it is desirable that there should be uniformity of action, and that the Coronation of the King Emperor should be celebrated in India not twice over, or in different places at different times, but as far as possible everywhere at the same time
